UnderCurrents

journal of critical environmental studies

UnderCurrents is an independent non-profit journal of critical environmental studies. We publish creative and critical writing, artwork, and photography that explore relationships between nature, society, and self. We openly and explicitly provide space for discussions of 'environment' which challenge the conventional boundaries and assumptions of academia and environmental discussion. UnderCurrents is produced by an editorial collective that employs a collaborative editing, design and distribution process to support the publication of every issue.
